I hope this subject hasn't been harped on too much – I just joined your group. Our corporation has blocked access to GoToMyPC and Webex due to security concerns. As a firewall administrator, I had to block the IP range of both sites. We have taken a lot of slack about the Webex site, all of them saying it is "so very safe, since all traffic is originated inside, and the security very granular". We even have a vendor that states Webex is their only way of supporting their product. How does everyone else feel about/handle Webex and similar sites?

Thanks,
Steve Smith
