Spoken like a true spammer. Spammers often defend their actions by saying "you can always delete it." Well, that's just not good enough for me. It, most certainly, WOULD help to limit posting to subscribers. It might not stop all the spam but it would some. Personally, I'd like to see the lists moved to a web bulletin board type forum. Then you don't get e-mails for subjects that aren't of interest and you can browse and post (if registered/subscribed) from any browser. The archives are nice but you can't post without an e-mail account. Spammers prefer e-mail so using a forum might even stop more spam. I'm pretty sure FreeBSD could handle a web based forum :)

Just my 2 cents,
