Antifreedom fighters have shut down one of the mirrors. Here be the sauce.

We are requesting mirrors and fellow righteous superheros to promptly archive the files (including Petko D. Petkov, pdp's mailbox RAR volumes), exercising your rights of freedom of speech and awesomeness. We also request str0ke, that little guy with mustache at milw0rm.com, to archive this piece of Internet and security industry history.

It's about time to start the greatest showdown of jews.

Thanks to Pink the Whiz Kid, Bulletman, Crimson Avenger and the rest of the crew at SoJ.

Excerpt of Tom Ferris' Internet Justice magazine article:

DoS, Memory Jumps, Integer Overflow)=20

Sendmail is, as we know, the most used daemon for SMTP in the world.=20
This is an International Infrastructure vulnerability and should have=20 been treated that way. It wasn't. It was handled not only poorly, but=20 irresponsibly.

You would probably expect me to be the last person to say that Sendmail is perfectly within their rights. I have had a lot of problems with what they are doing.

But what did you pay for Sendmail? Was it a dollar, or was it more?
Let me guess. It was much less than a dollar. I bet you paid nothing.

So does anyone owe you anything, let alone a particular process which you demand with such length?

Now, the same holds true with OpenSSH. I'll tell you what. If there is ever a security problem (again :) in OpenSSH we will disclose it exactly like we want, and in no other way, and quite frankly since noone has ever paid a cent for it's development they have nothing they can say about it.

Dear non-paying user -- please remember your place.

Or run something else.

[Full-disclosure] Squadron of Justice to the rescue

OK?

Luckily within a few months you will be able to tell Sendmail how to disclose their bugs because their next version is going to come out with a much more commercial licence. Then you can pay for it, and then you can complain too.

Let me think on it...

I am in winterflood ... do you like the idea of microblogging...

I was thinking that we could have to types of blogs on gnu citizen... the standard one.. which is what we have atm and a micro blog which is actually another category called microblog which contains messages and interesting info but in very all in all very short format.

what do u think... cuz guys, I don't know how they do it but guys like 0x000000 have more traffic ranking according to alexa then us and rsnake is the king of the hill.... we need to truly combine forces and get them out from the top place... but we need to layout an attack... startey...

any ideas?

what's up
we need to start thinking how we are going to move blogsecurity to gnu citizen. Do you mind if we follow the same theme... that will be the easiest way to do it. I have some cool ideas about how to graph
the wp-scanner results via Flex.

well, :) too late... it is up now. The modified version is on

I am also working on some other cool stuff that you may find extremely interesting.

i like it, but a bit too heavy for my taste. it feels too long. my mind was only able to read about 60% of it. of course, this is just my opinion, so you shouldn't take it as the absolute truth ;-)

if it took u testing X number of tools until u made it work u could have just said that in one line and then go straight to examples using the tool that finally worked. people like practical and quick things (again this is my opinion).

other than that, interesting topic (backdooring a flash file).

Web browser flaws are nothing new, but the professional crooks are finding new ways to combine these flaws into a system for turning a quick profit. This post describes an example of how one web site is combining system fingerprinting, browser vulnerabilities, email spam, fake web forums, and buggy PHP applications into an automated malware installation system.

This is your life and it's ending one minute at a time, Fuck off with your CISSP and shiny DEFCON badges, I say never be complete, I say stop being perfect, I say let... lets evolve, let the Oday fall where they may. Gadi does it everyday, he talks to himself... he sees himself as he'd like to be, he doesn't have the courage you have, to just run with it...

Man, I see in fight club the strongest and

In the world I see – you are stalking elk through the damp canyon forests around the ruins of Beyond Security's headquarters. You'll wear leather clothes that will last you the rest of your life.
You'll climb the wrist-thick kudzu vines that wrap the Sears Tower. And when you look down, you'll see tiny figures pounding corn, laying strips of venison on the empty car pool lane of some abandoned superhighway.

Listen up, fucking Gadi maggot. You are not special. You are not a beautiful or unique snowflake. You're the same decaying organic matter as everything else.
