In the UK, Microsoft is doing additional security training (free!), aimed at the local audience. For folks in the UK, the following FREE events are on offer.

1. There are 2 TechNet evening events covering Patch Management.

The first is in Birmingham on the evening of 10 December:

These offer free beer and pizza and a good overview of SUS and SMS for Patching. The presenter in Reading will be a MCS consultant, while I'm giving the event in Birmingham. This is level 200 content.

2. Another TechNet evening – Windows 2003 Server Troubleshooting & Disaster Recovery – Dec 16th.

Don't know who is giving this.

3. On-Line security web cast: Patch Management Level 200

<https://msevents-eu.microsoft.com/cui/EventDetail.aspx?culture=en-GB&eventid=118741837>

This will be a shortened version of the TechNet event – cut down to fit inside an hour. While this is aimed at the UK audience, I can't see that anyone would mind other folks joining in. NB: this is level 200 content with limited demos – it probably should be entry level material for most people on this list. But it might serve a good introduction for your managers, etc!

4. On-Line security web cast: Moving from NT4 to Server 2003

<https://msevents-eu.microsoft.com/cui/EventDetail.aspx?culture=en-GB&eventid=118741839>

This will be given by Dave Sayers – a great MCS consultant and a good speaker. Plus more free beer and pizza.

There will be additional security content in the new year, although I do not have dates or venues.

And did I mention this was all free?

Thomas
