I think Mark might be onto something both the vml and the copies of named files in the temp folder no longer appear to occur:

<http://www.securityfocus.com/bid/10307>

Those notes are dated 10th and 11th May. On the machine they no longer work on, we have a couple XP so-called 'patches' from 14th May and 17th May with 3 or 4 office update folders with files created on 17th May as well.

How's that for service. Quick, silent patching ! No need to bother anyone ! Well done lads. You see you can do it. When the resultant bug affects your bread and butter as it were, multiple billions of dollars can be thrown at the problem and a fix provided under a week. Silently too ! This despite the PR flack machine claiming all sorts of nonsense excuses about testing on all sorts of machines.

Bravo to Microsoft ! When they have to they can ! 5 gold stars !

[unless of course if our little XP test machines are broken and we are seeing things]

Want to reply to the person who sent this message? This list is configured such that just hitting reply is going to result in the message coming to the list, not to the individual who sent the message. This was done to help reduce the number of Out of Office messages posters received. So if you want to send a reply just to the poster, you'll have to copy their email address out of the message and place it in your TO: field.
