Howdy,

XP2 rollout has been relatively righteous.

The one prob that showed up was having Spydex's anti-keystrokelogger installed...puts XP2 into infinite reboot loop. Located the prob by booting into safe mode, running msconfig, preventing all drivers and applications from autoloading. Then bringing them back one at a time while booting normal mode. Voila...AAK is the culprit. They have been notified.

I suspect that there will be lots of app vendors doing serious rewrites over the next week. God bless msconfig!!!
