

Re: Nessus Plugins

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/securityfocus/pen-test/2005-03/0123.html>

From: Renaud Deraison (deraison_at_nessus.org)

Date: 03/30/05

Date: Wed, 30 Mar 2005 01:01:38 -0500

To: Pen Test <pen-test@securityfocus.com>

On Mon, Mar 28, 2005 at 05:14:23PM -0600, Dan Tesch wrote:

> Are there any sources for Nessus Plugins that should be frequently looked > at other than CVS?

No – Nessus.org is the only distribution point for both the community-submitted plugins, as well the the proprietary plugins we write at Tenable. Users wishing to submit a plugin should send it to plugins-writers@list.nessus.org (which is a public mailing list) or plugins@nessus.org (the plugin is reviewed and QA'ed privately and published in a timely manner).

> Are all of the items on CVS included when doing an automated plugin update?

Yes. The anonymous CVS repository contains all the plugins, although there is a 7 days delay between the day proprietary plugins are written and the time they are available to the general public. Feel free to read the Nessus plugins FAQ at <<http://www.nessus.org/plugins/?view=faq>> or to email me directly if you have any question.

— Renaud

--

Renaud Deraison

<http://www.nessus.org>