

Re: Apple pentesting

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Mailing-Lists/securityfocus/pen-test/2005-04/0014.html>

From: Erik Winkler (ewinkler_at_erols.com)

Date: 04/05/05

Date: Tue, 5 Apr 2005 15:01:46 -0400

To: "Julian Totzek" <julian.totzek@bristol.de>

Check out this website. Lots of good MacOS information.

<http://members.lycos.co.uk/hardapple/>

Depending on which version of MacOS is running there are lots of local root exploits and possibly even a few remote exploits to worry about.

Erik

On Apr 5, 2005, at 11:51 AM, Julian Totzek wrote:

> Hi Guys,
>
> I have to do a pentest in a environment where mac's should be located.
> Never
> tested MacOS somebody have some tips for me? They normally should only > be > clients no servers.
> Do you know of special tools to test them, or is it possible to test > them
> with progs like nesuss?
>
> Cheers
> Julian
>
>
> -----
> email scanned
> filename: mailbody --> clean
> SCANMODULE: Ikarus vdb: 05.04.2005(66449) version: 0.2.57.0
> -----
>