I think Duane is right that your best help would probably come over in that ZA forum.

Do a search there to see if anybody else has had the same problem and if they were able to resolve it.

If nothing, then ask there.

It could be something simple, it could be something 'tricky', it could be an incompatibility that will need a patch from either Skype or ZA or both.

I know this isn't all that helpful, but maybe get you pointed in the right direction at least.

I don't remember if you said, did you email both their support@'s about this?
