Obviously the guy wanted the MacBook Air (I'd want it too), and the guys who wanted the Wintel notebook didn't manage to prepare the pre-made IE exploits fast enough.

IE7 on Vista runs in protected mode and is the most secure browser there is because of it. Unless of course you run something like OB1 that doesn't support any scripting at all. Because of your hostile attitude and lack of objectivity I must end our conversation because you are not worth my time and are a nasty bullshitter. I hope others are smart enough to see you for what you really are.
