

comp.security.ssh: Re: ssh-agent for openSSH does not export SSH_AUTH_SOCK..

Re: ssh-agent for openSSH does not export SSH_AUTH_SOCK..

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.security.ssh/2002-05/0373.html>

From: Christian Koch (ordo_septenarius@t-online.de)

Date: 05/27/02

From: Christian Koch <ordo_septenarius@t-online.de>

Date: Mon, 27 May 2002 10:50:17 +0200

Richard E. Silverman wrote:

> % man ssh-agent
> ...
> There are two main ways to get an agent setup: Either the agent > starts a new subcommand into which some environment variables are > exported, or the agent prints the needed shell commands (either sh(1) > or csh(1) syntax can > be generated) which can be evalled in the calling shell. Later > ssh(1) looks at these variables and uses them to establish a > connection to the agent.
> ...
>
>> How can I solve that problem?
>
> % eval `ssh-agent -s`
>
thanks, you are right. Reading the man pages now more carefully...

- Next message: Nico Kadel-Garcia: "Re: Announcement: SecPanel 0.32 – SSH GUI for Unix/X"
- Previous message: Jan-Hendrik Palic: "Re: OpenSSH on Debian"
- In reply to: Richard E. Silverman: "Re: ssh-agent for openSSH does not export SSH_AUTH_SOCK.."
- Messages sorted by: [\[date \]](#) [\[thread \]](#) [\[subject \]](#) [\[author \]](#) [\[attachment \]](#)