

Re: Can't get ssh and wu-ftpd to work together

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.security.ssh/2003-12/0234.html>

From: Richard E. Silverman (res_at_qoxp.net)

Date: 12/27/03

Date: 27 Dec 2003 09:25:17 -0500

>>>> "RB" == Richard Brandt <richard1.brandt@attbi.com> writes:

RB> I am trying to follow the example in the "SSH-The Secure Shell"
RB> book for tunneling the control channel thru ssh...
RB> This works fine client% ftp -vd localhost 2001 This also works
RB> fine (login has no problems) but when I try to do any commands
RB> like "ls" it fails with

RB> ftp:setsockopt (ignored): permission denied
----> PASV
RB> Entering passive mode(192,168,1,50,232,45) ftp:connect: Connection
RB> refused

Yes -- you have tunnelled the control channel. Doing an "ls" tries to constuct a data channel, which fails, as described in great detail in the book chapter you're referring to.

--
Richard Silverman
res@qoxp.net