

Re: Destination server/port to tunnel www?

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/comp.security.ssh/2004-05/0259.html>

From: Toby Newman (google_at_asktoby.com)

Date: 05/28/04

Date: 28 May 2004 11:27:04 GMT

Darren Tucker

> *In article <Xns94F55CBD9EB6Fgoogleasktobycom@127.0.0.1>,
> Toby Newman <google@asktoby.com> wrote:
> [port forwarding]
>>What should I use as a destination IP/port for HTTP?
>
> Your HTTP proxy server.*

I'm not aware that I use a proxy server. The machine running sshd is behind a linksys BEFSR41 router, which in turn is connected to my cable internet. I can log into the machine using SSH remotely, and once in, set up tunnels for POP3 and NNTP. I'm still not sure which IP and port to use as a tunnel destination for tunneling WWW access.

--

Toby
asktoby.com
BSOD VST & ME