What I need to create is a web page that will have a place to enter your NT login name and a drop down box that list all domains on the users network and a text box to enter a password.

- 1.I need to figure out how to get the list of domains in .NET
2. How to authenticate to windows with the information entered.

Multiple users will login on to the web page using the same computer. The user logged on to the Windows computer will not be the user logging onto the web page.

Any help appreciated!

Thanks
