

User has to login twice. Why??

Source:

<http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.dotnet.framework.aspnet.security/2003-08/0097.html>

From: Dave (DavidTabaka_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 08/08/03

Date: Fri, 8 Aug 2003 05:40:47 -0700

I would check the permissions on folder where the login form resides. It should be set to anonymous so all users can get to it in order to login. Sounds like it's set to Basic Authentication which is why you are getting the pop-up

Dave

>-----Original Message-----

>Hello,

>

>I am using windows forms authentication in my asp.net web application so >that it uses ADSI to validate users.

>

>The application is in a virtual directory on my local system,

>(<http://localhost/MyApp>), and it makes the call to a domain server on our >network. Everything works great. When the application is on the deployment >server the user is required to login via the windows login (Pop-up) and then >once again via the login form.

>

>The test environment:

>-----

>IIS Authentication Methods: (Local Machine)

>Anonymous access (unchecked)

>--

>Basic authentication(checked)

>Digest authentication(grayed out)

>Integrated Windows authentication(checked)

>-----

>

>The deployment environment:

microsoft.public.dotnet.framework.aspnet.security: User has to login twice. Why??

>The application is in the root directory,

(<http://MyApp.com>), and it makes >the call to a domain server on the network.

>-----

>IIS Authentication Methods: (Deployment Server)

>Anonymous access (unchecked)

>---

>Basic authentication(checked)

>Digest authentication(checked) I have also tried it unchecked.

>Integrated Windows authentication(checked)

>-----

>

>What security settings need to be changed?

>

>Here is the web.config file settings.

> <identity impersonate="true"/>

>

> <authentication mode="Forms">

> <forms loginUrl="logon.aspx" name="MyDomain" timeout="10" path="/" >

> </forms>

> </authentication>

>

> <authorization>

> <deny users="?" />

> <allow users="*" />

> </authorization>

>

>Thanks,

>Bryan

>

>

>

>

>