

Re: Problems with form authentication

Source:

<http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.dotnet.framework.aspnet.security/2003-09/0333.html>

From: Martin (martinvalmont_at_yahoo.com)

Date: 09/25/03

Date: Thu, 25 Sep 2003 10:10:38 +0200

It doesn't change anything. Any other idea ?

"Fredrik Normén NSQUARED" <fnormen@hotmail.com> a écrit dans le message de news:15a501c38277$59335000$a101280a@phx.gbl...

Try to change your authentication cookie domain from ".mydomain.com" to "mydomain.com" or only "mydomain"

/Fredrik Normén NSQUARED2

>-----Original Message-----

>I'm experiencing some problems with role-based forms authentication accross >domain.

>I wanted to create an unique login page for multiple web server running >different applications.

>My first server is www.mydomain.com

>The second one is www1.mydomain.com

>The third one is www2.mydomain.com

>I made a login.aspx page on www.mydomain.com and set all web.config so that >the user is redirected to this unique page. All the machineKey have been set >to the same value on each server.

>The authentication cookie domain is ".mydomain.com" and everything is >working fine. When I log in on the first server, I can navigate through each >servers.

>My problem is that when I want to log off, I need to delete the >authentication cookie. The cookie is not persistent and is set to expire >after 20 minutes but i want to enforce the deletion. I tried to use the

>FormsAuthentication.SignOut() Method but it would not

delete a cookie

>generated across the full domain (this method work fine if I set my cookie >domain to www.mydomain.com but then i can't share it accross my >applications). I tried to remove the cookie from the request or from the >response using Request.Cookies or Response.Cookies collections but nothing >happens.

>

>The only solution I found was to create a new authentication cookie which >domain is ".mydomain.com" and in which I store an non-existent user with an >incorrect role and to send it to the client. The previous cookie seems to be >overwrited and as the information stored in my authentication cookie are >irrelevant, the user is sent back to the login page. I was wondering if >there was any more satisfying solution.

>

>Thanx for any help.

>

>Martin.

>

>

>.

>