I have some code that calls a webservice and sets the credentials as follows

```
WS.Credentials = New System.Net.NetworkCredential("user", "pw", "")
```

This works on xp and win2K, but when deployed to an NT workstation PC, I get a 401 unauthorized. If I allow anonymous on the webservice virtual directory, then it works on NT.

Is there something on NT or the framework on NT that is causing this to fail ?

Thanks
Tim B.
