Hi,

I'm having a problem with forms authentication on an asp.net application. To summarise, after logging in initially, the login never expires. I can come back to the application after days, and I'm still logged in. However, if I delete cookies from the browser I am once again redirected to the login page. I currently have timeout="2" in the authentication/forms element of the web.config.

Anyone have any idea about what might be causing the problem?

Thanks
