Mark,

First, is this 2.0 or 1.x? In 2.0 they have a CreateUserWizard control that you can set what URL you want to send them to after they successfully register with your site. In addition the Membership API helps to take care of managing all your users. But I am thinking, based on your post, that you are doing this in 1.x.

I heard today at the VS Live show, that the cookies collection can be tricky, because it actually contains all of the incoming and outgoing cookies in the same collection. The way they handled this was to change the cookie directly in the Response.Headers["Cookies"] collection.

All of this probably does not help, but it's late.

Thanks,
Chris
