

Re: Default Web Page

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.inetserver.iis.security/2003-02/0284.html>

---

From: Peter M. (pcfreak@pcfreak.de)

Date: 02/10/03

From: "Peter M." <pcfreak@pcfreak.de>

Date: Mon, 10 Feb 2003 16:18:45 +0100

"Tony Ruggieri" <truggeri@gte.net> wrote in message news:epOyPTR0CHA.428@TK2MSFTNGP09...

> Hi all,

>

> *I have tried to set up IIS 5 on SBS2000 and am having difficulty getting > default web page to display when I attempt to access the server from the > internet side. Instead of giving the 'Under Construction' page, it gives me
the*

> an error that states:

>

> Error Type:

> Microsoft VBScript runtime (0x800A0046)

> Permission denied: 'GetObject'

> /localstart.asp, line 19

>

> I have set this up on another SBS2000 and it works correctly.

>

> If I access from the LAN side I get the default pages that show you how to > setup a web site. If I access from the internet side according to the > documentation, it should display the 'Under Construction' page. This server

> does not.

>

> I have re-setup this server half dozen times to figure out what I did > different from the last one that it worked on. I have had no luck. I have > run the ICW wizards multiple times in order to get this to work and have > tried numerous KB articles addressing authentication but no luck. If I run

> the ICW, I am specifically selecting give internet users access to 'My > site' in the ISA setup portion, but this does not seem to work. Am I > missing something here?

Web

>

> Tony R

microsoft.public.inetsrvr.iis.security: Re: Default Web Page

>
>

Hi,

afaik localstart.asp is only for LAN access as the name says.
Security settings of IIS prevent viewing this page over the net I think.

Greets

Peter M.