Thanks for answers to prev question.

But it seems nobody listened to the question.

Namely: I know that Backing up is do-able, even by hit or miss, getting it right or wrong. I've read most instructions on it, including at the MS site offered.

The problem is: There is no "Backup Wizard", no "Backup" button in the "System Tools" directory under "Accessories" in the Start menu.

Rather, it includes: Activate Windows, Character Map, Disk Cleanup, Disk Defragmenter, Files and Settings Transfer Wizard, Scheduled Tasks, System Info, and System Restore.

I list these to convince the helpful responder that I am looking in the right place.

So, back to the question: There appears to be no "Backup" utility. Where could it be hiding?

– OR – as I installed XP without setting up a System Administrator role, am I locked out of this? Is backing up only permitted by a system administrator? And if so is it too late for me to become one? Hint: It is one of my several home computers, there is nobody else with "authority" around here. I'm not even married !!

How do I find the backup utility??

Thanks

Tom
