UNBELIEVABLE!!!! I find it utterly amazing that when ever somebody gets smart with an mvp you automatically think they are me. Can't you dumbasses accept the fact that some people just don't like you. You dumb fucks think you own these newsgroups, well let me tell you something YOU DON'T.

Let me clarify that: When PCButts disguises himself as Sharon Franks pretending to be MCSD and MCT.

All those MCSDs and MCTs are arrogant, pretentious and condescending.

the feedback.

No
because
when
you
update
Adobe
Reader
it
automatically
removed
the
old
version
and
leave
the

one
only
. Although

big problem

Re: Adobe Acrobat Reader Updates

New to the board and missed the previous post about Java updates. I have a couple listed in my add/remove window and was wondering if it was safe to remove these?

Rotorhead

This isn't a "board", it's Usenet and the original question was about Adobe Reader, not Java. Your answer is "yes" you should remove all previous Java installs from Add/Remove Programs and only have the latest which you get from Sun. Next time make a new post.

Re: Adobe Acrobat Reader Updates

I think my question was polite and well intentioned. Your "reply" was rude and "boorish". Please forgive my misuse of the term "board" it was not meant to offend anyone and only demonstrates my experience, however "old-school" it may appear to the so called expert – Malke. Next time don't be such a "jerk".
