

Re: The newbie's dilemma!

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.security.virus/2007-08/msg00250.html>

- From: Dustin Cook <bughunter.dustin@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 27 Aug 2007 06:41:23 GMT
-

"BoaterDave" <BoaterDave@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in news:OK#7Cx95HHA.2752@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx:

I'm obviously dumb about such things :(Over here in the UK I pay a monthly fee to an ISP for Broadband connection to the Internet. All time 'on line' – 24/7 – is 'free'. Whilst I recognise that I could also use a dial-up facility with any ISP, such time on line with them (via a telephone line) will cost real 'extra' money, often on a 'per minute' basis. As someone with limited income, I can identify no reason at all for incurring extra costs.

In the usa, I don't have a per minute charge on the dialup lines. I wouldn't be able to justify the cost of keeping them if I did. :)

As for the other lines, much of it has to do with what I do for a living. Bandwidth is needed if your into computer repair. :)

"Cloak and Dagger"? Good way of putting things. <g>

It just seems to me that you have misunderstood a few things, and seem to think someone is out to get you or something. I don't know, it's just what I'm beginning to think.

'Tis the other way round, Dustin. I'm trying to identify the bad guys! :)

Ahh.. Okay. I haven't found any bad guys so far. so I'll continue to lurk then. :)

She has control over Annexcafe newsgroups and has the ability to remove any posts which are deemed 'unacceptable' – especially those

Re: The newbie's dilemma!

Again, that's not information I would have access too. I don't know anything about annexcafe aside from the fact it appears to be some kind of social networking site?

and am abiding by that request. Whilst others may think otherwise, I'm convinced that she is only here in this thread because I'm here! <g>

I don't know anything about annexcafe policies on users. I'm unfamiliar with it aside from little things I've read here.

Btw, It's not a big deal to myself, as I'll fix your post as I reply, but top-posting is often frowned upon because it interrupts the logical flow of the conversation.

I do understand that, but feel it stems from habits in the past. When I first ventured into a newsgroup (here on the MS boards) I'm sure I missed some answers to my queries as I was totally unaware of 'bottom posting'. I'm sure most folk can cope with either method, especially if they follow a thread from the outset and get a 'feeling' for the subject matter. Thanks for your advice though. :) coping isn't the issue. I was just trying to keep you out of the flamer fire for top posting. :)

David

PS Lots of advertising for your programme in this thread, eh, Dustin?

Apparently so. Not exactly intentional on my part, however. It's just a signature to me. And the program is freeware. I don't expect to get rich from voluntary donations. grin

Dustin Cook
Author of BugHunter – MalWare Removal Tool – v2.2c
Email: bughunter.dustin@xxxxxxxxxx
Web...: <http://bughunter.it-mate.co.uk>
Pad..: <http://bughunter.it-mate.co.uk/pad.xml>
#####