

enabling cookies

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.security/2003-02/0900.html>

From: Greg (scrongue@yahoo.com)

Date: 02/14/03

From: "Greg" <scrongue@yahoo.com>
Date: Thu, 13 Feb 2003 23:41:23 -0800

I was using the MSN chatroom feature for about 2 weeks. I went to log in today and the .NET Passport sign-in page said "Your Web browser options are currently set to disable cookies. To use .NET Passport, you must enable cookies."I don't know why this is happening – I didn't change any settings for my cookies. I went to the help window and I can't find anything that tells me how to enable cookies other than to lower my security settings. I lowered my security setting to the lowest possible setting but that didn't change anything – the .NET Passport Sign-in page is saying my browser is still not accepting cookies. Does anybody know what the problem is???? I have Windows 98 and Windows Explorer 5. Any help would be greatly appreciated. Thank you. Gary.