

Re: To clarify the link for CWShredder Update

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.security/2004-02/1892.html>

From: LuckyStrike (LS_at_smokedamagedfurniture.youcandriveitawaytoday.com)

Date: 02/25/04

Date: Wed, 25 Feb 2004 14:07:46 -0700

"Jim Eshelman" <newsgroups@NSaumha.org> wrote in message news:ernBF99%23DHA.1700@TK2MSFTNGP12.phx.gbl...

> Thanks to George, I just wandered into this thread, and I'm not sure where > all the brouhaha started – but thought I'd say a thing or three in response

> to what I've been reading.

>

> A whole lotta folks (thank goodness) are joining the "parasite fight" these > *days and, while many are doing a spectacular job, nobody has moved more > mountains than Merijn, who has my respect and gratitude. For his programs > and instructions, I link straight to the source – except, of course, when > the source is unavailable, as with the recent and prolonged DDoS attacks

he* > has suffered.

>

> When this hit – and Merijn's site became, for a time unavailable – Silj was > kind enough to give me alternate download links for most of what's > available. I've added these liberally in various places on my site (always –

> in case it matters to anyone – marking them as alternate links to > distinguish them from the primary ones).

>

> My own evolving best efforts to aid the war can be found here:

> <http://aumha.org/a/parasite.htm>

> <http://aumha.org/a/noads.htm>

> <http://forum.mvps.org/index.php?c=12>

>

> Links (including alternate links) to some of the more popular and useful > antiparasite tools, including CWShredder, can also be found on the "My > Favorite Freeware" page: <http://aumha.org/freeware.htm>

>

> If anyone has a need for four different ways to get to each of the previous > pages, you may add www. to the front of any of them, and substitute > winsupportcenter.com for aumha.org. Pick your favorite flavor <g>.

microsoft.public.security: Re: To clarify the link for CWShredder Update

>
> Lucky, you flatter me enormously, and I'm happy you continue to find the > site valuable and helpful. This summer will mark 5 years it's been going > and, over time, one can accumulate a bunch of stuff. I've tried to make the > *site into the tool that I like to use. A bunch of other folks have said* > that this approach works just fine for them and they can find their way > around.
>
> Don't worry about my bandwidth consumption. I haven't yet begun to hit the > available bandwidth limits despite lots and lots of hits. Send all the flood > of genuinely interested people that you want, either to the site itself – > <http://aumha.org/> – or to the forums at <http://forum.aumha.org/> – or to > both.
>
> And if this makes me a target for those attacks, too... well, I don't want > to make life harder on the kind folks at pair.com, though they have the > resources to fight almost any attack that can be levied. And I don't want to > be mistaken for a supporter of a certain politician by shouting, "Bring'em > on!" But... well, I really do have a ton of bandwidth and a webhost support > team that knows how to fight (and has something like 6x bandwidth overage), > so let's just say I have no anxiety about being turned into a target as a > result of your circulating links to my site. We're handling the first 3 > million hits a month just fine, and we could double that without a bandwidth
> problem.
>
> On the other hand, it sucks like a Hoover that one of my fellow MVPs
levied
> the attack that he did. Too bad I won't be seeing him in April so we can > throw shots of vodka at each other from 10 paces (and then buy each other
a > few refills). I'm willing to accept this as his having a bad day and > tripping over the Send button due to both feet being in his mouth (I've > Bindar Dundat <s>). But I'm sorry you got bullied by it, Lucky.
>
> --
> Jim Eshelman, MS-MVP Windows <http://aumha.org/>
> AumHa Forums: <http://forum.aumha.org/>
> Fighting Parasites: <http://aumha.org/a/parasite.htm>
> Computer Health: <http://aumha.org/a/health.htm>
> Troubleshooting: <http://aumha.org/a/tshoot.htm>
>

Jim,

microsoft.public.security: Re: To clarify the link for CWShredder Update

My fault; I started it by posting your link for CWShredder – which I fortuitously stumbled upon while cruising your site, as I do with a certain regularity – and then due to not really "spelling out well" a description of the URL link, started the commotion by being slammed by you know who. news:ecJj7o3#DHA.3452@TK2MSFTNGP11.phx.gbl

At any rate, the dust is settling; your understanding and support –in more ways than one– is appreciated, and I'm glad you will be able to withstand any possible onslaught of Bandwidth that this will consume, as well as being most able to effectively "duke it out with the bad guys". <S>

Your site works great; even I can navigate my way though the huge amount of info you offer. Therefore, I'm wishing you 5 more (make that 10 if you can handle it. Hope so!) successful and great years doing what you do so well!

--
Your devoted fan,
LuckyStrike
LS@smokedamagedfurniture.youcandriveitawaytoday.com
