

Re: need help changing administrator on computer

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.security/2004-10/0754.html>

From: Phillip Windell (_at_)

Date: 10/13/04

Date: Wed, 13 Oct 2004 13:48:51 -0500

This bootable CD will allow you to change the Administrator's password.
<http://home.eunet.no/~pnordahl/ntpasswd/bootdisk.html>

Once you can get into the Recovery Console, I believe MS has articles in their KB to remove a failed SP2 via the Recovery Console. They should be fairly easy to find by doing a search of MS's site. I don't have any links handy at the moment.

--

Phillip Windell [MCP, MVP, CCNA]

www.wandtv.com

"Pascal" <Pascal@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:A178850D-9FC0-4A91-8814-4B56D45CD399@microsoft.com...

> It does not work for me. It will not change the Administrator password > because it is Blank password. My update to WXP SP2 did not work properly and

> I loop-reboot. And i cannot access the recovery console because of that > Administrator password.

> Do you have any idea?

>

> "Tim Holman (MVP - Security)" wrote:

>

> > This bootdisk should do the trick in most cases:

> >

> > <http://home.eunet.no/~pnordahl/ntpasswd/bootdisk.html>

> >

> > "Mare" <Mare@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message

> > news:5503E161-8970-445C-99C0-AB5F9274C16B@microsoft.com...

> > > I need some major help. I am trying to change the password or better yet

> > > the > > > person who is now the administrator on my daughters computer. I cant

> > > remeber

> > > the password that she had for her administrator rights and there is no way

> > > to > > > ask her as she passed away a year ago. Any help will greatly be > > > appreciated.

> > > I dont understand the terms too much but I am learning. Thanks in advance

> > > for > > > any help you can give me. I have been trying to use myself as the > > > administrator and I cant do it without getting rid of her screen name > > > and/or > > > passwords.

Re: need help changing administrator on computer

microsoft.public.security: Re: need help changing administator on computer

> > >
> > > Mare
> >
> >
> >