

Re: Linked Server Login Mapping – strange thing...

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.sqlserver.security/2002-06/0659.html>

From: jimmers (jimmers@vandex.ru)

Date: 06/12/02

From: "jimmers" <jimmers@vandex.ru>
Date: Wed, 12 Jun 2002 00:08:36 -0700

You may consult this article:

<http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?scid=kb:en-us:Q299410>

Also verify that in both cases the systems have the same configurations, service packs applied.

Cheers

"mark" <Please@post.here> wrote in message

news:c23001c21174$6dfb75f0$36ef2ecf@tkmsftngxa12...

> If anyone have thoughts on this. Kinda confused here.

> Situation:

>

> ADSI linked server on SQL2k, Win2k native Domain.

> User is member of Dom Admins.

> Login to SQL has been granted (Domain\User), member of > SysAdmins role.

>

> Getting various errors 7330, 7350... when querying ADSI

> using OpenQuery (syntax is correct)

> Can Query using OpenRowset and providing User credentials

> in the form of UPN: user@domain.com

>

> Created a mapping on Linked server security: Local Login

> = Doman\user, remote = user@domain.com (same user, > basically, just different syntax)

>

> Now OpenQuery works.

>

> I tested on another natve mode domain, there is no

> problem using legacy style logins: Domain>Login

>

> Any Ideas please ? Or this is more a question to the > systems folks than SQL?

>

>