

SQL Admin

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.sqlserver.security/2002-11/3640.html>

From: Eduardo Goto (enoron@hotmail.com)

Date: 11/22/02

From: "Eduardo Goto" <enoron@hotmail.com>

Date: Fri, 22 Nov 2002 13:04:51 -0800

Put the programmer's login like SQL services owner in the administrative tools. I guess that's the unique way.

>-----Original Message-----

>I have an SQL 2000 programmer that needs to be able to >restart SQL server often.

>

>The problem is, I cannot give him administrator rights, >for instance to log directly on the 2000 server.

>

>Is there anyway to allow this without relinquishing >administrator rights?

>

>Thanks!

>.

>