

Re: lock pages in memory and AWE

---

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.sqlserver.security/2006-04/msg00129.html>

---

- From: "Geoff N. Hiten" <SQLCraftsman@xxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Mon, 17 Apr 2006 17:33:55 -0400
-

Only if your SQL server gets hacked/compromised. Then again, you are usually hosed if that happens anyway.

—

Geoff N. Hiten
Senior Database Administrator
Microsoft SQL Server MVP

"Alex" <alim@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:uWfXe8lYGHA.2376@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Hi,

I noticed that SQL Service account needs 'lock pages in memory' permission to enable Address Windowing Extensions (AWE). Is there any risk in granting this permission to SQL Server and SQL Agent service accounts?

Thanks