

Re: netstat results

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2002-10/8618.html>

From: x y (jamescagney90210@excite.com)

Date: 10/04/02

From: "x y" <jamescagney90210@excite.com>

Date: Fri, 4 Oct 2002 11:26:50 -0400

It depends. Posting the results of the Netstat command might help.

"John" <john.karalekas@vitalstate.com> wrote in message
news:1131401c26af9$856847c0$3aef2ecf@TKMSFTNGXA09...

> I wonder if anyone understands the netstat commands > results. I have been monitoring network connections to the > server over the past two weeks and would get short list of > results (about 5 to 6 items)2 established connections.
> This week The list grew to over 40 and many of them with > established connections. The majority of the results are > mail server results, but the dns name is slightly > different than our mail server. There is separation to the > name with a (-).
>
> Is this normal or is it a security problem that must be > looked at imediatly.
>
> Almost all users now have e-mail addresses to this ghost > server.
>
> john