

Re: USER PROFILES

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2003-06/1105.html>

From: Jodie Fearon (jodie.fearon_at_cesjm.com)

Date: 06/16/03

Date: Mon, 16 Jun 2003 12:11:55 -0500

I also have a similar problem...

Basically I want to be able to prevent users from installing programs on the win2k pro machines but still be able to run all their installed programs without giving them admin priviliges.

"Andrea Bardi" <andreabardi@hotmail.com> wrote in message news:uLOWmIZMDHA.2244@TK2MSFTNGP11.phx.gbl...

> Hi all i have this problem:

> in our company we would like to deny any user installing any applicaion on > theri PCs: so one solution could be set power user right to the useres.

BUT

> (there's always a BUT) we use a PDM application that dinamically downloads

> DLL and installs them in order to deploy new features and upgrades to the > clients.

> Setting low-privileges to the users they cannot register DLL and the > application is not able to Autosetup itself wwhen someone, different from an > administrator, is logged to the machine

>

> So How could we let a DLL registration blocking program installation?

Could > be a solution to use personal user profiles via Scripts? and if this is the > solution How ca i do it? Some examples or docs??

>

> Thx in advance

> Andrea

>

>