>I am having an issue with a few laptops. Seems that when >the user log's on while connected to the network

everything

>works great. However, when the user is off the network – >after typing in the password the system hangs at the >background. No start menu, No program icons, Cannot Ctrl–

>Alt–Delete. The only way to get the system to respond is >to hold down the on off button and shut the system down...

>unplug from network and restart and check Event Viewer sound like a service is hanging
