

microsoft.public.win2000.security: Re: How to map SID to user names...

Re: How to map SID to user names...

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2003-10/2907.html>

---

From: Vanguard (no-email_at_post-reply-in-newsgroup.nix)

Date: 10/31/03

Date: Fri, 31 Oct 2003 02:41:34 GMT

Use regedit to look at:

HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SOFTWARE\Microsoft\Windows
NT\CurrentVersion\ProfileList

Each SID listed under there will have a ProfileImagePath that shows you the user's profile path (and thus their username). Some

--

---

*** Post replies to newsgroup. E-mail is not accepted. ***

---

"faustino Dina" <ffdina@matusa.com.mx> wrote in message
news:#I0NMA0nDHA.2232@TK2MSFTNGP09.phx.gbl...

> Hi,

>

> Browsing a group on my terminal server PC Local Management I found that the > membership is composed of "users" like

> "\S-1-5-21-917267712-1342860078-1792151419-512". I don't know what happened

> but it doesn't look that some month ago. Now I need to know which users

> these SID correspond. Is it any tool for doing that?

>

> Thanks in advance

> Faustino

>

>