

Re: Reset password

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2004-10/0849.html>

From: Tom (Tom_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 10/27/04

Date: Wed, 27 Oct 2004 12:55:05 -0700

thanks for the reply

I just took over a network. This password is used when I login to the server (on the server) and map a network drive on workstations.

so i'm not sure if it's sam or built in admin account, I'm green to it.

"Steven L Umbach" wrote:

> Which password – the local sam password for Directory Services Restore that > is stored in the local sam? If so see the link below for more info including > the use of the setpwd command. Otherwise any administrator in the domain > can change reset the password on any domain account including the built in > administrator account for the domain by going to the account in Active > Directory Users and Computers, selecting the account and right clicking to > see the reset password option.--- Steve

>

> <http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?scid=KB;en-us;239803&sd=tech>

>

> "Tom" <Tom@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message > news:A0FE075D-DA77-487A-B943-D23F16D3713F@microsoft.com...

>> OS: Win2000 Adv.Server (PDC)

>> I need to reset login password on the server.

>> How I can reset it?

>

>

>