

Re: How to track user account creation?

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2005-02/0654.html>

From: Chris Mann (ChrisMann_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 02/25/05

Date: Fri, 25 Feb 2005 05:17:02 -0800

Thanks! I'll try this out!

"Steven Umbach" wrote:

> Enable auditing of Account Management in Local Security Policy and then an event > will be recorded in the security log when accounts are created, changed, or > deleted. --- Steve
>
> <http://support.microsoft.com/default.aspx?scid=kb;en-us;300549> -- how to > configure auditing.
>
> "Chris Mann" <ChrisMann@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message > news:DCA783B1-BFEB-4A6A-BE64-7C0CC0553E31@microsoft.com...
> > Does anyone know how I could track when user accounts are created on a Win2K > > server? The server is a stand alone server, not running AD, so they will be > > local user accounts. I know I can track login of users, but I need to know > > if another administrator creates a user account.
> >
> > Thanks in advance!
>
>
>