

RE: Remove MS AntiSpyware or Add Exception

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2005-08/0289.html>

From: Rschraeger (Rschraeger_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 08/25/05

Date: Thu, 25 Aug 2005 05:28:23 -0700

Johan,

I ran into the same thing a month ago. I ended up disabling the Spyware since that seem to be easier for us. An exception will work as well, but we also had problems with the Firewall blocking the install. So we had to turn both off.

--

RS

MCSE, MCP +I MCP

"Johan" wrote:

> We are migrating our domain this weekend to a new name, and we have an issue > where there are around 200 workstations with MS AntiSpyware installed. The > problem is that it appears that it blocks the agent from migrating the > workstation into the new domain.

>

> This means unless there is a way to automatically allow the agent to run, I > will have to run a script, which uninstalls it across the network.

>

> Does anyone have any ideas?