

microsoft.public.win2000.security: Re: I need some tools, what's good??

Re: I need some tools, what's good??

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2005-08/0304.html>

---

From: RL (NOSPAM_at_DOMAIN.COM)

Date: 08/26/05

Date: Fri, 26 Aug 2005 07:59:38 +0200

"jokes54321" <jokes54321@nospam.com> schreef in bericht
news:O7Ue4GcqFHA.248@TK2MSFTNGP14.phx.gbl...

- > Other than the NT Event log, what are some good tools I can use to monitor
- > various items like failed logon attempts and general Network Admin stuff.
- > Another tool I need is one that will go through all of our user accounts
- > and show me the last time they were logged into.
- >
- > Up until recently, we haven't had good standard practices in place and
- > finally feel it's time. Accounts were created on a whim and never tracked,
- > so I assume we have dozen's of stale accounts.
- >
- >
- >

The tool Permission Analyzer shows you the last login time for each user. Further more, it gives you an overview of all directory access rights for each user or user group and you can see what software is installed on all the workstations.

<http://www.PermissionAnalyzer.com>