the problem is if the applications that are on the server (it also has software licensing for the workstations) don't work after I have them join them to the domain, can I set these

Maybe some one can help you if you provide a description of the software and what it is supposed to do, and what it does instead.

Error messages from event viewer would help also.

I have a domain controller W2000, I also have two servers W2000 that are in a workgroup that I want to join the domain. the problem is if the applications that are on the server (it also has software licensing for the workstations) don't work after I have them join them to the domain, can I set these servers back to the workgroup they were originally in without problems. thanks
