

Re: strange safe.w2kserver1.com connections, spyware?

Re: strange safe.w2kserver1.com connections, spyware?

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2006-02/msg00131.html>

- From: "none" <mikem891@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 27 Feb 2006 23:05:01 -0800
-

Sorry to answer my own questions but I'm posting this in case someone has the same problem as I did.

Ewido anti-malware is able to detect it:

You can download a 14 day trial

<http://www.ewido.net/en/download/>

After 14 day the resident scanner is disabled, which is something I never use anyway because it slows down the computer. Everything will work as normal if you do the scans manually after the trial expiration date. It's a very great scanner. It found other spywares that were not detected by other programs.

You can also use their online scanner:

<http://www.ewido.net/en/onlinescan/>

Avira and AntiVir antiviruses are also supposed to be able to detect it.

.