

Re: Same update over and over again

Re: Same update over and over again

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2006-03/msg00121.html>

- From: "Roger Abell [MVP]" <mvpNoSpam@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 21 Mar 2006 08:24:26 -0700
-

This is a workaround attempt only

That KB is for security patch ms05-018 (which is fairly old)

<http://support.microsoft.com/kb/890859>

You could go to the bulletin and follow the links for your XP Home to download and while logged in with admin account install the patch manually.

<http://www.microsoft.com/technet/security/bulletin/ms05-018.msp>

If this does not work the two things you might try are

- posting in the Windows update newsgroup
- calling MS using the PC Safety helpline

"ROOSTIE" <ROOSTIE@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:4D3E1E60-66A8-403E-ACF9-05B221F5515C@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Just wiped and reloaded my XP Home machine.

Autoupdates are on and 99.9% went through OK.

I have one update though that keeps downloading and updating time and time again. If I install it, it says "install done" and then 10 seconds later get a tray Icon telling me I have downloads to install. The very same one just downloaded.

I

I

Initializing installation... done!

Installing Security Update for Windows XP (KB890859) (update 1 of 1)...

Any way to stop this happening but still keep my Autoupdate option live?