

Re: Event after Join

Source: <http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.win2000.security/2006-06/msg00058.html>

- From: "mackdaddy315" <mackdaddy315@xxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 20 Jun 2006 13:05:00 -0700
-

found the following....

<http://www.eventid.net/display.asp?eventid=646&eventno=1800&source=Security&phase=1>

Steven L Umbach wrote:

If auditing of account management for success is enabled in Domain Controller Security policy you should see an event ID 645 in the security log of the domain controller that created the user account. You can use the free Event Comb from Microsoft to search security logs for specific Event IDs and text strings such as computer/user names. --- Steve

"mackdaddy315" <mackdaddy315@xxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:1150830117.198940.282040@xx

What is the Event created when a computer is joined to the domain and if none is made by default how do I set it to make one.
Thanks