If users do not have read permissions to the Rshx32.dll file in the \windows\system32 folder then they will not be able to see the security tab. That may not be the problem for you but worth checking out. You can use cacls to view and change permissions from the command line as in cacls \windows\system32\rshx32.dll. Below is what it shows on my XP computer. Use cacls /? to see the syntax for cacls and keep in mind that you want to use the /E switch to edit existing permissions otherwise you will replace existing permissions as in removing everything [all users/groups] but what you grant. --- Steve

```
D:\Documents and Settings\Steve>cacls \windows\system32\rshx32.dll
D:\windows\system32\rshx32.dll BUILTIN\Users:R
BUILTIN\Power Users:R
BUILTIN\Administrators:F
NT AUTHORITY\SYSTEM:F
```
