

Re: Netlogon /Sysvol

Source:

<http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.windows.server.security/2006-01/msg00271.html>

- From: "Steven L Umbach" <n9rou@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 29 Jan 2006 11:33:29 -0600
-

If you can consider using "startup" scripts where possible. Then the user does not need to read the script but domain computers will which you can put into the permissions for the script file and remove authenticated users. Startup scripts run in context of the system but can not always do user specific tasks. --- Steve

"Leo_Surf" <LeoSurf@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:689EF294-F7B4-4C03-B8DB-BF3D2B912FD8@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
> Hello,
>
> I have Windows 2000 server (Domain Controller) and Windows XP clients.
>
> I have certain policies and logon scripts in Sysvol/Netlogon folder, issue > is users are able to browse (by \\mydomain.com) the sysvol and netlogon > folders adn can see the scripts. Please help me in sorting this out.
>
> Thanks in Advance,
> Leo

• References:

- ◆ Netlogon /Sysvol
◇ From: Leo_Surf

- Prev by Date: Re: Issue cert to member of untrusted domain
- Next by Date: Re: Windows 2003 security issue
- Previous by thread: Re: Netlogon /Sysvol
- Next by thread: Re: Netlogon /Sysvol
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread