

Stans-alone root CA or Enterprise root CA

---

Source:

<http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.windows.server.security/2006-09/msg00000.html>

---

- From: "pestocat" <ge1114@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 31 Aug 2006 15:32:07 -0700
-

I have a small domain that I want to setup EAP/PEAP for a WiFi wireless switch environment and need to issue certificate to the switch. I have already installed a Stand-alone root CA, but after reading Chapter 10 of "The Ultimate Windows Server 2003 System Administrator's Guide", I get the impression I should have installed Enterprise root CA. Is this correct. What are the tradeoffs?

Thank you