

Re: Deny Right to Local Admin Group to Log On Via Terminal Services?

Re: Deny Right to Local Admin Group to Log On Via Terminal Services?

Source:

<http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.windows.server.security/2007-05/msg00120.html>

- From: "NW" <interest@xxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 25 May 2007 09:29:17 -0400
-

Thanks!

"Roger Abell [MVP]" <mvpNoSpam@xxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:O%23tsDXonHHA.3544@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

No harm, other than loss of the avenue for remote mgmt.
You could just remove the grant to Administrators, either on the RDP connectoid or the user right, rather than using a deny in either (or both) places.

"NW" <interest@xxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:%23fagpCinHHA.3952@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Any harm in denying log on via TS to the local Administrator Group?

Since our domain's TS is available from outside networks I thought this may provide some security benefit.

Thanks.