Hello chriske911,

Configure password policy at domain level, you can set the period for the password after that it has to be changed. Under Computer configuration>windows settings>> local policies>security options you can find "Prompt user to settings>> change settings>> password before expiration", set it to the day number you like.

how can I make our citrix and terminal servers not prompt users to change their password or delay it to the last day or something alike?

thnx

I don't want to change the policy at domain level

I only want to prevent users to be prompted to change their password each time they start up a citrix application since I have gathered all citrix and TS servers in 1 OU I was hoping there was a policy that would disable the prompt all together
