Does anyone know of a way of syncing a local user account with its domain user account after a password change – This needs to be hidden to the user.

The users do not want the local account password to be changed, apart from when they change their network password.

I know that Win9x and Me allowed this by amending the registry key.

HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\System\CurrentControlSet\Control\PwdPro
vider\MSNP32

Does anyone know of something similar for XP Pro?
