

MS Excell Going Nuts

Source:

http://www.derkeiler.com/Newsgroups/microsoft.public.windowsxp.security_admin/2003-02/2334.html

From: Ray Weldon (raymond.weldon@us.army.mil)

Date: 02/20/03

From: "Ray Weldon" <raymond.weldon@us.army.mil>

Date: Thu, 20 Feb 2003 11:17:04 -0800

Hoping someone can help me out. I was working on a spreadsheet on Excecel when I found out I had some kind of virus or something. Whenever I open Excel, instantly the computer seems to take control and start typing. A stream of unrelated words seem to be typed in as if someone has remotely taken over my keyboard. If I let it go, it will continue to type forever. I have disconnected my telephone wall connection before, durring and even after this happens. It still continues. When it is going on, it interups all of my work. It locks everything else up. Including even shutting down. I first noticed this happening when I was in my Yahoo accont. The strange typing would appear in the windows where you should type your screenname and password. I figured it was someone trying to hack into my computer. I guess they finally got through. The spreadsheet I have been working on is extensive and improtant. Is there a way to save it? Can anyone help me with this weird situation?