The problem is I cant get my new computer to connect through the internet using my cable modem. I know the cable modem works because I am using it right now to connect to the internet on my old computer, which in turn is letting me post this message. I tried then cmd thing and typed in ipconfig/renew and an error saying the it could not connect to the DHCP server could not be contacted or something. If you need any other information to help you solve this problem please ask. I need to get this fixed. Thanks.
