While attempting to update my ICQ software to the latest version I received the following message "You do not have access to make the required system configuration modifications. Please rerun this installation from an administrator's account." The only problem is the fact that I have an administrator's account. I switched to the other two user accounts on my family's computer that have administrative access and was denied permission to do the same thing on both of these accounts. Any ideas?

Thanks in advance,
